James Johnson

Offline & Online Editor /Composer

Avid, Media Composer, Symphony, Premiere Pro.

Profile

James is a quick and creative editor, with a varied and diverse editing history. He has worked at top Soho facilities, with broadcasters and at production companies. He has worked on a variety of TV genres – commercials, music tv, sports, dramas and documentaries. James' expertise is in finishing, but his vast experience allows him to offline as well. He is equally happy working on promos and commercials as he is on long-form projects.

James is a trustworthy editor, who can take a brief and self-produce his way through a project, but he also works well with other people, so he can collaborate with producers and directors.

James has a great deal of experience with digital work flows and High Definition, working with a myriad of different sources and formats and delivering to various client specifications, both on tape and file delivery. James is technically very competent and you can rely on him to ensure that your production will comply with all necessary technical and delivery requirements.

James' background as an online editor and graphics compositor means he can bring a great wealth of experience dealing with effects, grading and compositing. This means he can ensure you get the best out of your rushes.
